Hunger, homelessness and the lack of affordable housing have all increased in tandem with our region’s dramatic growth. The demographics of persons experiencing homelessness reflect the stark inequity in our community. While only one third of the overall population, people of color constitute two-thirds of those who are in emergency and transitional housing in King County. Similar levels of inequity can be seen in access to affordable housing and healthy food: 1 in 5 kids in Washington state lives in a household that struggles to put food on the table.

The impact of going without meals is profound. Chronically hungry children suffer from increased illness, exhibit developmental problems and struggle to get through the school day. Similarly, without stable housing, individuals and families are thrown into a tailspin of uncertainty. Stuck in survival mode, finding work or thriving in school can be unattainable. We focus on stable housing and healthy food as pillars of security. Research demonstrates that meeting these basic needs allows children and adults to realize their potential.

VISION

All Greater Seattle residents have access to the essential components of an equitable community: affordable, stable housing and healthy food.

HEALTHY COMMUNITY FRAMEWORK

Seattle Foundation established the Healthy Community Framework to delineate the essential elements of a thriving community, and focus philanthropy where it can have the greatest impact. Built on eight elements, the framework acknowledges the complex and interwoven nature of the challenges and assets in our community and allows philanthropists to consider more strategic investments in the causes they care about most.

For each element, we provide a vision for change, high-level context and analysis, recommended priorities, and proven actionable approaches to effective giving informed by research, data, community insight and technical expertise. These are designed to stimulate thinking and generate new approaches to making Greater Seattle a stronger, more vibrant community for all.
